Michael Chamberlin

Stand Up Comedian / Writer

Michael has made many television appearances most notably as co-host of 'The Mansion' on the Comedy Channel and three seasons as a cast member of the popular Australia sketch show 'skitHOUSE'.

He has performed stand up on 'Rove' (Network TEN), 'Stand Up' (ABC TV), 'Stand Up! Australia' (The Comedy Channel) and best of all, made Bert laugh on 'Good Morning Australia' (Network TEN).

Michael's writing highlights include being a core writer for 'skitHOUSE' but also a contributing writer for 'Rove' for five years until its conclusion in 2009. He also spent a season working on Network TEN's 'Before The Game'. In 2011 he could be found hanging out in the writers room for ABC TV's Adam Hills in Gordon Street Tonight (where you'll find him again in 2012), and as head writer for Network Ten's Can Of Worms, not to mention writing for the one and only John Cleese.

Michel has performed seven solo stand up shows, five of them in the Melbourne International Comedy Festival. He has also performed a number of shows at the Adelaide Fringe Festival.

In 2009 year, he presented comedy segments for ONE HD's 'Thursday Night Live' as well as writing and producing comedy sketches for the 2009 TV Week Logie Awards.

He can be seen regularly performing in comedy rooms across the country.

"entertaining, intelligent and witty... Simply put - this guy is funny"

The Adelaide Advertiser

"... unexpected punchlines give his performance a refreshing unpredictability...a thoroughly endearing and funny storyteller..."

The Age

"The type of unexpected original comedy the Fringe should uncover more often..."

The Adelaide Advertiser

"Chamberlin is a festival must see"
